STANLEY'S MOVEMENTS

As He Relates Them to the Arab, Tippoo Tib.

The Explorer All Right Up to the Middle of August, and Meandering About Somewhere in the Wilds of Africa, and in Good Health.

BURBLES, Jan. 16.—The following letter, written by Henry M. Stanley, has been received in this city:

BOMA OF BOMALTA, MURETIA, AUG. 17. SUEIKH HAMED-BEN-MAHOMED.—From his good friend, Henry H. Stanley. Many salutations to you. I hope that you are in good health as I am, and that you have remained in good health since I left the Congo. I have much to say to you, but I hope I shall see you face to face before many days.

I reached here this morning with one hundred and thirty Wangwans, three soldiers and sixty-six natives belonging to Emin Pasha. It is now eighty-two days since I left Emin Pasha on the Nyanza. I only lost three men all the way. Two were drowned and the other decamped. I found the white men who were looking for Emin Pasha quite well. The other white man, Cassel, is also well. Emin Pasha has ivory in abundance, thousands of cattle and sheep, goats and fowls and food of all kinds. I found him a very good and kind man. He gave all our white and black men numbers of things. His liberality could not be exceeded. His soldiers blessed our eyes so far to show them the way. Many of them were ready to follow me out of the country, but I asked them to stay quiet a few months that I might return and fetch the other men and goods left at Yambunga. They prayed to God that He would give me strength to finish my work. May their prayer be heard. And now, my friend, what are you going to do? We have gone the road twice over. We know where it is and where it is good, where there is plenty of food and where there is none, where all the camps are and where we shall sleep and rest. I am waiting to see you as it has always been toward you. I leave it to you. I will stay here ten days and will then proceed slowly. I will move hence to Big Island, two hours' march from here about this place. There are plenty of houses there, and plenty of food for the men. Whatever you have to say to me, my ears will be open, with a view to your always being toward you. Therefore, if you come, come quickly, for on the eleven morning from this I shall move on. All my white men are well, but I left them all behind except my servant William, who is with me.

HENRY M. STANLEY. SUEIKH HAMED-BEN-MAHOMED, whom the above letter is addressed, is the Arab Tippoo Tib. The letter, which was taken to Stanley Falls by a messenger, and which reached Brussels by post last night, is the only one from Stanley that has reached the coast of Africa. A number of other letters which he has written, he has sent to Stanley Falls still remain there, but it is expected that they will arrive in Europe in two or three months.

THE EARTHQUAKE'S POWER. Costa Rica Gets Another Taste of It at a Cost of Millions.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Late advice from Costa Rica regarding the earthquake of December 30 last, mentioned in the cable dispatches a short time ago, says the shock was the most severe experienced since 1822. In San Jose both the national capitol and the magnificent cathedral fronting the public square, which required ten years of labor to erect, at an expenditure of $1,000,000, are in ruins. The Presidential palace, city hall, national post-office and several other public buildings were also wrecked. Advice from surrounding cities report the shock even more severe, and bring accounts of loss of both life and property. The latest estimate of the damage throughout the country exceeds $8,000,000. The Poas volcano has suddenly become active. It is estimated that twenty miles north of this place, at an altitude of 8,800 feet above the sea, it had been sleeping for years, and only a couple of weeks before the earthquake a party of explorers, after a visit there, reported the crater entirely filled up. Now it has broken out with all the fury of a volcano, and a mile distant from the original mouth. An average of three slight shocks was felt daily for several days after the first. Business during that time was almost entirely suspended, and the majority of the people in San Jose camped in the public squares, fearing their houses would fall.

John L. on a Rip-Roar. BOSTON, Jan. 16.—Sullivan was drunk yesterday, and there's no use denying it, although denials will undoubtedly be made. It was only a day or two ago that John told how well he was and what he proposed to do to bring himself into vogue to fight Kilrain. The use of intoxicants was not mentioned by him as a part of his training, but, on the contrary, he has declared that he had forewarned drinking and was going to make a man of himself.

Straps and Fatal Fire. PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 16.—A very mysterious fire occurred on the South Side early this morning, and a woman and child were badly burned. About 1:30 a. m. a policeman noticed a slight blaze in the second story of a house occupied by Arthur Roddey, at No. 114, South Street. An alarm was turned in, and the fire was extinguished with but little damage. When the firemen entered the room they found Mrs. Roddey and her child lying on a couch, which was in flames. The woman's body was burned to a crisp, and the child was painfully but not seriously injured. The origin of the fire is unknown.

IT RESTS WITH CONGRESS.

What Hayard Has to Say About a War With Germany.

New York, Jan. 17.—The Herald's Washington special, Secretary Bayard, speaking with a friend a few days ago regarding the attacks made upon him for permitting the Germans to occupy Samoa, said: "The State Department has done all that it can do in regard to Samoa. All the correspondence with Germany in relation to this situation, including the alleged abuse of the American residents in the island, is now in possession of Congress. Some of it was sent there more than a year ago. Any further action must necessarily come from Congress. The American consul several months ago made a request for a man-of-war, and Secretary Whitney kept one there permanently, as he had done at Honolulu upon a similar request. I understand that the Trenton, now at Panama, has been ordered to Samoa to reinforce the fleet, but neither ship would dare take any overt action, no matter what the Germans may do to the islanders. Section 12, Article I, of the Constitution, the right to declare war is vested entirely in Congress. They are as fully cognizant of the situation as the State Department, and Senator Frye knew a year ago just as much as he does now. If war with Germany is desired it must be so declared by Congress. We have done all in the matter that is possible for an Executive Department. American residents there will be simply protected, but when it comes to a contact with the forces of a friendly nation the matter assumes a different aspect. What the Germans will do with the natives of Samoa, and our relations to Germany in this respect, are matters that require considerable diplomatic delicacy, and can only be settled through diplomatic channels; unless, as I have said, Congress decides to interfere to the extent of declaring war."

ESCAPE CUT OFF.

Thrilling Scenes About a Blazing St Paul Building.

Many Employees Injured by Jumping—Narrow Escapes From Death.

ST. PAUL, MINN., Jan. 18.—At a quarter past three o'clock this afternoon fire was discovered in the basement of the four-story general office building of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railroad, on the corner of Fourth and Wakarusa streets. Before warning could be given, even to those on the first floor, the flames had entered the stairway in the central part of the building, and the halls were filled with smoke, so that the only avenue of escape was through the windows. The one hundred or more employees on the second, third and fourth floors were also cut off from escape by the stairway, and as there were no fire-escapes attached to the building, they were compelled to await the arrival of ropes and ladders. Two or three engines were on the scene a few minutes after the alarm was turned in, but it was twenty-five minutes before ladders-trucks arrived and rescued the inmates. APPALLING ACCIDENT.

More Than Twenty Men Hurled to a Horrible Death by the Breaking of a Draw Bridge Near Spottsville, Ky.

EVANSVILLE, IND., Jan. 20.—The difficulties between the bridge contractors at Spottsville, Ky., and the Louisville, St. Louis and Texas railroad had a most tragic termination this afternoon at 4 o'clock, when the draw broke in twain, precipitating about forty employees into the river, more than one-half of whom were drowned before assistance could reach them. A slight retrospect is necessary to understand the accident. Since the completion of the bridge, about ten days since, there has been trouble between the contractors and the railroad as to the terms of the contract and payment for the work. Last week the first L. St. L. & T. train advertised that it would make its maiden trip to Henderson, but when it reached Spottsville it found the draw thrown open, by order of the contractors, and the train could not pass. The railroad authorities at once appealed to the courts of Henderson, and an injunction was granted against further interference with the traffic of the road until the full equities of the case had been decided. This decision was rendered yesterday, granting the temporary injunction, and the road resumed its normal condition. It would cross the bridge to-morrow morning. This brings the matter down to this afternoon. It seems that the act, under instructions from the contractors, had gathered upon the draw, and placed upon each end of it a number of heavy rails, intending to obstruct the train in this way to-morrow, and not violate the court's injunction by opening the draw. Just before four o'clock this afternoon the Bowling Green packet "General Daves," bound for this city, whistled for the draw to be opened, that it might pass through the bridge. The contractors, however, and while all of the contractors' men were still standing upon the ponderous draw, it swung open, and the steamer passed into the opening. But just as she got beneath the bridge, there was a dull, strange creaking, which came from the draw, and the next instant the bridge broke into two parts, immediately over the center of the pier upon which it rested, and both wings, with their weight of iron and human beings, plunged downward, a distance of forty feet, and in an instant sink beneath the surface amid wild shrieks from the doomed workmen and lamentations of the spectators. Many of the unfortunate had their limbs and necks broken before the draw reached the water, and all being thrown downward upon the iron track and beams, or entangled in its debris, were borne down, never to rise again.

Telegraphers' Sunday-School. CHATTANOOGA, TENN., Jan. 20.—A novel Sunday-school has been organized among the telegraph operators of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad. At two o'clock every Sunday morning the school is called to order by the superintendent, Operator Bramblet, who telegraphed his order from Watrache. After prayer and the reading of a chapter from the Bible, all of which is done over the wire, questions are asked the class by Operator Bramblet, and the first man to answer captures the circuit.

Treed by a Bear. PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Jan. 20.—Sol English, of Pocahontas County, went out hunting a few days since. He came across a huge specimen in a narrow mountain pass very unexpectedly. The bear charged the hunter, who took to his heels and climbed a tree just in time to escape the bear. The bear kept English "up a tree" for hours, until he had yelled himself hoarse. Fortunately a hunter heard his yells and came to his relief about dark and killed the bear, which weighed over 500 pounds.

An Oil Tank Bursts. ENGLEWOOD, ILL., Jan. 21.—This afternoon a large oil tank at South Chicago, containing twenty thousand barrels of crude oil, burst, and the contents ran out in a stream running in every direction, and great fears are felt that the oil will take fire and do great damage. These tanks are at the end of the Lima pipe line, and five of them each contain now thirty thousand barrels. The loss on the burst tank and oil is estimated at $30,000.

Threatened with Lynching. PITTSBURGH, PA., Jan. 20.—A Charleston (W. Va.) special to the Dispatch says: Frank Dickson, arrested at Luray a few days ago for wrecking Chesapeake and school train, near this city, on October 25, was brought to this city before daylight and lodged in jail. Organized mobs of railroad men are expected here to lynch the prisoner, and two military companies are in readiness to repel them.

Young Woman's Strange Choice. OMAHA, NEB., Jan. 20.—Miss Louise Zimmerman, aged eighteen years, daughter of a prominent liquor dealer, eloped with one of her father's drivers, an old, half-headed man named Darnick. She was engaged to be married to a young, rich and handsome man. Her father is on the trail.

Passenger and Freight Collide. KNOXVILLE, TENN., Jan. 20.—A passenger train on the East Tennessee road ran into a freight train at Radley's Station last evening. Engineer Zeck Durson and Fireman Will Hiser, of this city, and Rufus Patty, of Johnson City, were killed, and several others were slightly wounded.

Slugged for Charity Funds. INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 21.—Marion Snodgrass circulated a subscription in aid of Thomas Cochran, collecting $10, and also had his own week's wages. This morning he was found lying unconscious in the street, having been and-bagged and robbed.

Medicine may modify some of your symptoms, my friend," said the doctor, as he wrote a prescription, "but nothing except a change in your habits will bring permanent relief. You don't take enough exercise." "Don't take enough exercise?" exclaimed the astonished visitor, with his eyes staring from his head. "Why, good heavens, doctor! I've been the chairman of the committee for collecting the pastor's salary for nearly eleven years."—Chicago Tribune.

FIFTIETH CONGRESS.

Second Session. WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—SENATE.—Mr. Hoar introduced a concurrent resolution for the counting of the votes by President and Vice President, which was referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections. It provides that the two Houses shall assemble in the hall of the House of Representatives on Wednesday, 13th February next, at 1 o'clock. The tariff bill was then taken up, and at 5:30 p. m. the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—Immediately after the reading of the journal, Mr. Randall (Pa.), from the Committee on Rules, reported a resolution rescinding the rules requiring a daily adjournment at 5 o'clock. Mr. Pay

Gov. West, of Utah, appeared before the House Committee on Territories and argued against the admission of Utah into the Union. He held that Statehood for Utah would trench Mormonism there.

The Maysville Bulletin asserts that the Ninth District Democrats will take pleasure in supporting John F. Hagar for Governor. It is time this portion of the State was receiving gubernatorial recognition.

Eighty-seven persons were hung in the United States by judicial process during the year 1888—one of them a woman, hanged in New York. The record is not large for sixty millions of people, and is perhaps a much smaller number than deserved the same treatment.

One hundred Representatives and nineteen Senators are to be elected in Kentucky next August, and in a few of the districts nominations have already been made. At the same time a final vote is to be taken on the question of holding a convention to formulate a new constitution.

There is talk of connecting Ashland and Catlettsburg by a street railroad. The Ashland Republican says: "The prospects for a town all the way between the two places are good. People are buying lots and building all along the line, and a street railway will soon be a necessity."

It is reported from London that the British Government has decided to stand with the United States in upholding the treaty by which European powers are precluded from attempting dominion in the Samoan Islands. England's Pacific fleet will be increased immediately by two powerful vessels.

To the question, "Does prohibition prohibit?" the good people of Christian county reply: "Not by several thousand jugs-full—especially during the holidays." The statement is based on experiences of the last holidays, when the citizens of Hopkinsville alone brought into town for private consumption about 3,000 gallons of whiskey.

On Monday, after two hours filibustering, a vote was taken in the West Virginia Senate for President, and when the result was read it was found that R. S. Carr, Union Labor Senator, had sixteen votes, which elected him by two more than was needed to effect an election. The Democrats voted for him. This is a victory for Democrats and broke the dead-lock over the Republicans, who had determined in caucus to fight it out, regardless of the consequences.

Senator Vest a few days ago made it exceedingly lively in the Senate for his Republican opponents. In fact he made it uncomfortable for them in the extreme. That portion of the tariff bill which places luxuries on the free list was reached, and it was here that the Republicans were in the highest state of glee. Senator Vest, however, was equal to the emergency, and erected a neat trap for them to fall into, and they fell like sheep jumping a fence; they went all in a heap. He offered amendments which were like thorns in the sides of the Republican protectionists. For lavender, he wanted inserted laths; burgomast, bricks; otter of roses, salt-civet, staves of wood, and for musk, shingles. He forced the taking of the yeas and nays on each, whereupon every Republican voted against them and in favor of placing luxuries rather than necessities on the free lists. This was making a splendid record for the Democrats, showing how the Republicans stood when the question came in so pungent a manner. It was a field day for Vest and a sore one for the Republicans, who make such loud claims as the friends of the laboring people.

Mr. Allison last week reported from the Finance Committee two amendments to the Senate Tariff Bill, providing for the payment to sugar-growers in the United States a bounty of one cent a pound on sugar. This is simply proposing to do openly what the Republicans through their tariff system, have been indirectly doing for years—taking money from the taxpayers to pay in bounties and subsidies to favored special classes.—Courier Journal.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is prescribed by eminent physicians, and is taken with perfect safety by old and young. Its cleansing and vitalizing effects are cure and speedy, and it is universally conceded to be the most effective of all blood purifiers.

John Wanamaker sailed for Europe last week. He is not leaving the country in order to escape punishment for bribery—they are not punishing big Republicans for that this year—but on recreation and business intent. His "business" is probably to look after that foreign ribbon manufactory of his, whose products he has been recently trying to get into this country by swindling the Government of the lawful duties.—Courier Journal.

If any Republican has hugged the delusion that the Democratic party is dead, or even despondent, the enthusiastic celebrations of St. Jackson's day all over the country have probably convinced him of his mistake. The members of the Kentucky Democratic Club were in high feather. They elected an excellent set of officers for the ensuing year, and the club promises to continue to grow and prosper under its new administration.

Ayers Pills cure constipation, improve the appetite, promote digestions, restore healthy action, and regulate every function. This medicine is pleasant to take and gentle in its operation. See article in Ayer's Almanac.

The State College Full.
[Lexington Observer.]

The patronage of the State College is so large that it has become an embarrassment to it. All its class rooms are full; its dormitory will hold no more. Large numbers are boarding in town. Every room in the College is occupied. The delay in the completion of the new building has been a source of much inconvenience. New dormitory accommodation is imperatively needed. Numbers of the students will arrive by the beginning of the new term, and what to do with them is now the problem before the College authorities. It is just possible to have too much of a good thing, and the State College seems to have it now.

John Greenwall, who killed Lyman S. Weeks in Brooklyn several months ago, will probably have the "honor" of being the first man struck by judicial lightning in New York. He was found guilty of murder in the first degree, the punishment for which in that State is death by electricity.—Courier Journal.

IS CONSUMPTION INCURABLE?
Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, New York, writes: "Was taken with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me incurable; consumptive. Begun taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, an hour on my third bottle, and able to overcome the worst of my lam. It is the finest medicine ever made."

Juste Midland, Doctor, Ohio, says: "Had not been cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of Lung Trouble. Was given up by doctors. Am now better of health." Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, 100 bottles sent to W. T. F. and Sons, St. Louis.

That Stupendous Theft.
The Voice, a weekly paper published in New York, with a circulation of some fifty thousand copies is the national organ of the Prohibition party. In its last issue it prints full and complete exposure of the theft of its mailing lists and other property for the use of the Republican National Committee during the Presidential campaign, which lists were turned over to Quay, Clarkson and Dudley, President, Vice President and Treasurer of the committee, and paid for by them.

The theft was committed by a clerk named Durlee, and the sale of the stolen property was effected by a deaf mute employee of the paper, named Sansom who pocketed most of the proceeds. But the clerk got hold of other valuable documents, and Clarkson and Dudley promised him a profitable government position for them. The Voice publishes facsimiles of letters of Clarkson and Dudley in relation to the matter, and as an accompanying to the confessions of the clerk and deaf-mute, who were confronted with their treachery and made to tell under oath the disgraceful story of their negotiations with the dealers in stolen property, one of whom is a Senator of the United States and the other personal friend and representative of the President-elect on the committee.

The exposure is as complete and unimpeachable as it is in damning in its revelation of the infamous means resorted to by the Republican managers to carry the last election. Is there any further room for doubt even among Republicans themselves, that their Presidential campaign was rotten with fraud, bribery, and corruption of every description? It will go sinking down the pages of history as the foulest prostitution of the popular will ever known in ancient or modern times. No self-respecting man can be found in such company.

The high-toned rascals did not count on their crime finding them out; or else, what is more than probable, they depended on immunity from public scorn on the extent to which their corrupt methods, coming after a long line of Republican precedents tending in the same direction, would demoralize the American people. Is that dependence to be justified by public indifference to the exposure of their crime? And what can be expected of an Administration accepting high office, knowing that it was procured by such means? No man can be the willing beneficiary of uncleanness, and still be personally clean.—Covington Commonwealth.

The Danger Line in Health.
[Paducah News.]

Speaking of the unusual weather for this season of the year to a well-known physician, a morning or two since, I asked him if the unseasonable meteorological conditions were likely to affect the public health. He replied: "Not at present. But when a change comes, as it probably will shortly, that will be dangerous. The disease mostly to be feared is pneumonia, and the people should be especially careful to guard against it. When the inevitable 'cold snap' does arrive, they should be careful to never go out of a heated room without being well wrapped up; breathe through their nose, and not admit the frigid air to their lungs through their mouths."

There's a little girl at Muir's who is going into the "boy preacher" business, it seems. A correspondent from there to the Palmyra Democrat, says: "Mary Lemons, a little girl ten years old, delivered two sermons in this place. She has a good voice, splendid delivery, and with a little more practice will be a miracle as a preacher of the Gospel, which profession she has chosen for life. All who have heard her are more than pleased, saying that her sermons can not be surpassed by any man or woman. She now has over a dozen different calls, and will start immediately on her mission."—Bourbon News.

Mr. J. W. Rice drew $250 at the January drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery. He held a one-twentieth ticket corresponding to a number drawing a $5,000 prize. The report last week that a club at this place had drawn $15,000 was a "mistake." It drew $15.

The correspondent who wrote the communication from Emma last week did a very uncommendable act in stating that Mr. D. W. Webb, of Glenwood, had become insane. We have just learned that there is no foundation in fact for the statement, and that the correspondent was prompted by personal enmity. It was written in such a manner that it was impossible to detect its falsity.

The Babies Cry for It. And the old folks laugh when they find that the pleasant California liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs, is more easily taken and more beneficial in its action than bitter nauseous medicines. It strengthens the stomach and bowels. For sale in 50c and $1 bottles.

We heard of a very disgraceful occurrence a few days ago. A young man came to Louisville and procured license to marry a girl living a few miles from this place. The wedding was to have occurred that evening, but when the time came the prospective groom was so beastly drunk that the ceremony had to be postponed. The posthumous should be perpetual.

Louisiana might have a number of enterprises established within her limits if the citizens would use some extra efforts and offer fair inducements. This is what is necessary to cause a town to grow and become one of importance, as has been, and is constantly being demonstrated by other towns. Those that offer inducements and push their claims prosper, and those that wait for enterprises and business to find them "get left." The time has arrived in the history of this country when slothful and unenterprising towns each day find themselves further "down the list."

My son, John L. Moore, was taken sick with malaria fever on June 5th and was sick until Sept. 22nd. He was unsuccessfully treated by skillful physicians, and after trying every remedy thought of, I was induced by W. T. Evans to try a bottle of Sparks' Perfect Health. I bought one bottle and in less than one week he was able to go about, and is now in Perfect Health. I recommend this to all who are afflicted with any disease for which it is recommended.

A Charleston W. Va. special says: "Cap. Hatfield and his father, Anse Hatfield, who are most prominent in the famous Hatfield-McCoy vendetta, of Logan county, this State and Pike county, Ky., are endeavoring to make terms with the officers and all others, and bury the hatchet. Cap. and Anse were in the town of Logan O. H. the first of the week, and stated that they wanted peace, would go into terms looking to a settlement if allowed to be acquitted. They were heavily armed, and notwithstanding the detectives and officers made no attempt to arrest them. What will come out of the proposition is not known."

Are we to have Another War? Some political prophets aver that we shall. So that it may be the battle waged by medicine against disease will never cease until we arrive at that utopian epoch when the human family shall cease to be afflicted with bodily ailments. One of the most potent weapons which the armory of medicine furnishes, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is of special utility as a family remedy, and is adapted to the immediate relief and ultimate cure of those disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels which are of commonest occurrence. Indigestion, biliousness and constipation are insupportable companions, and these ailments are completely eradicated by the Bitters. But the remedial scope of this superlatively wholesome and genial medicine takes in also nervous ailments, rheumatism and kidney troubles; its action in these, as in the other complaints, being characterized by unequalled thoroughness.

A LOAD OF CLOVER.

A load of clover in the early dawn
(Light in the center of the town) I sped,
And straight I saw a sweeping breadth of lawn,
With fields on either side.

Great clover fields, short of their stems bright,
With misty bits of spider-webs, dew-gemmed,
Stung here and there; and daisies, pointing light.

Snow-trilled and dapple-stemmed,
The sun had given to the foggy lake
Of gattered vapors, hurling them apart,
And wild-rose twined, half awake,
Pink as a seashell's heart.

And dappled cows, with peaceful, placid eyes,
Stood waiting, while the maid came tripping
down,
Bright-eyed and rosy, holding, tunic-wise,
Her cheerily gleaming gown.

A slender footpath lost its way among
A weedy labyrinth of frosty tins
Of plants, chickweed, fennel, adder's-tongue,
And moneywort and mint.

A home-like garden stretched its crisp, green lines,
All drenched and dripping with the dew of morn,
And flowers were scattered through the sturdy vines.

And stalks of early corn,
Like some fair dame that dreamed of stirs
And swayed the stately double-hollyhocks;
And vigorous bean-vines hung their rounded pods.

Above the four o'clocks,
And away, spotted lilies shot aloft
Beside the beds of sage and lavender;
And parsley grew among the pansies soft,
In purple rich array.

The vision flashed upon me and was gone,
I turned and went my way with loitering
feet,
A load of clover in the early dawn
Passed up the city street.

And Willie McKenzie came. Harry found him, as he had anticipated, a whole-souled, young fellow, a little shy, but for years just then, but full of animal spirits and with frank, winning manners, which quickly broke down the barriers of new acquaintanceship. As they sat smoking their cigars together on the steps that evening, Winthrop broached the subject which had such a thrilling interest to him. Taking the links of the watch-chain he had found on the spot of Barclay's murder, he said to the young man with the pointed question:

"Have you ever seen these before?"

He was astounded at the ghastly paleness of McKenzie's face. He literally trembled as he gazed with a black look at the golden links.

"Why do you ask?" he stammered.

"Nay; let me be the questioner," Harry continued, gravely, "I will tell you, I have seen these links in the hands of a young fellow, a little shy, but for years just then, but full of animal spirits and with frank, winning manners, which quickly broke down the barriers of new acquaintanceship. Taking the links of the watch-chain he had found on the spot of Barclay's murder, he said to the young man with the pointed question:

"You must do more. You must tell me who last position of it. I am almost frenzied when I think of what may be possible. I know the grudge you bore poor Barclay; I heard you threaten him that night at Charlotteville. You shall not leave this place tonight until you have made a clean breast of every thing."

"And who's to hinder me?"

There was then a sharp scuffle, and Harry dropped from the window and flew to the spot, just in time to catch in his arms McKenzie's reeling form and see the figure of a man drop to the other side of the boarded fence.

"Thank you—I am not much hurt," the young man cried, while he clung to Harry so persistently that pursuit after the fugitive was impossible. "It was only a fellow I knew in better days—he was unfortunate—he had some words—and you see my sickness has not left me very strong. Pray come quietly back to the house. I would not for a great deal disturb the ladies in their slumber."

Harry thought for a moment before he replied. He had not a shadow of doubt but that this young Platt, who apparently was the ne'er-do-well son of his hostess, was his friend's murderer, but he was about to marry the ruffian's sister, in his conviction. So, acting on this impulse, he said, as unconcerned as though receiving disreputable acquaintances in gardens at midnight:

"Well, let us go back to bed, my dear fellow, and if I were you, I wouldn't wander about by starlight till I was a little bit stronger."

But in the heart of his hostess he knew that it should go hard with the festive Mr. Platt if once he could get upon his track.

CHAPTER XL.

THE AMBASCADOR.

Our ancestors used to chuckle hugely over the joke Mrs. Glass perpetrated in the home-circle, for it is not a very pleasant thing for a man to sit at the same table with ladies whose son and brother he is determined to bring to the gallows.

But though he learned many particulars concerning the widow's son, who was declared by several who knew him to be a notorious scoundrel, who had been drummed out of the regiment in which he had enlisted, and who now was known as Harry Winthrop, he did not deem it prudent to tell the ladies of his present whereabouts. No one had seen him. No one wanted to see him. So Harry went back to his regiment at Harper's Ferry, without bringing the scoundrel's tactics.

And Willie McKenzie came. Harry found him, as he had anticipated, a whole-souled, young fellow, a little shy, but for years just then, but full of animal spirits and with frank, winning manners, which quickly broke down the barriers of new acquaintanceship. HOME, FARM AND GARDEN.

—Keep large pieces of charcoal in damp corners and dark places.

—To keep potatoes from sprouting pour boiling water over them. It does not injure them for cooking.

—Tinware is best washed in soda and water. It can be scoured with care, yet if kept clean from day to day it seldom needs to be scouring, which process wears it out quickly.

—Clean out the seeds of beans, beets and peas and put them in woolen bags, with a small piece of gum camphor in each bag. Hang the bags in a dry place, and occasionally shake them up during the winter.

—A teaspoonful of guano, added to two gallons of water, and the mixture used for sprinkling potted plants, will keep them in good condition during the winter. The pots should have good drainage below, and should be placed where the frost can not injure the plants.

—The temptation to borrow fallen leaves from the woodland is great; but the trees need all of this fertility, this reservoir of moisture, this natural covering for the seeds, this protection for the young sprouts. The wise forester will leave the leaves in the woods.—American Gardener.

—Imitation Plum Pudding.—Soak dried apples until very soft, then chop fine and to each cup add two cups of molasses, one cup of each of chopped suet, seeded raisins and water; two eggs, a pinch of salt, three pints of flour, one teaspoonful cinnamon and two teaspoonfuls baking powder; mix thoroughly, putting flour in last. Roll in a flour cloth and boil two to three hours. To be eaten with a hot lemon sauce.

—One acre of a farm devoted to garden crops will provide a large variety. It is important to get the one acre in condition and have it rich. Sow it now and spread plenty of fine manure (not litter) on it, and then plow it again early in the spring. By this method the worms and grubs will be destroyed and the frost will pulverize the clods. The manure will also be rendered more soluble, while the ground will be warmer in the spring and better adapted for the early crops.

—It is a foolish habit that some anxious parents have of discussing the health of delicate children in the children's presence. The Christian Union says: "A physician, speaking out of a deep and practical mind, said: 'If you hear a mother refer to her daughter as nervous in the daughter's presence, if you can not speak, glare at her, but if you can speak, say, 'Madam, your conversation would make a wooden girl nervous, to say nothing of a flesh-and-blood young person like your daughter.'"

CHILDREN'S APPETITES.

Some Sound Advice on a Matter of More Than Ordinary Importance.

While some children eat daintily and seem to know when they have enough, there are others who eat ravenously at the table and seem to be eating all the time between meals. This, I think, is an unnatural state of things. Animals in their youthful days are inclined to over-eat, but an animal worth raising is carefully guarded so that it does not over-eat. Should not these children be as carefully watched as animals? It is too often a habit acquired by food being easy access, or over-indulgent parents, who, as soon as a child frets, give it something to eat to pacify it, until from an over-loaded stomach it is fretful and cross, and the more it eats the more uncomfortable it becomes.

I could not help contrast the manner of a very rich lady with her three boys with that of others I have seen since.

They have a very comfortable breakfast at seven o'clock in the morning, lunch at twelve, which usually consisted of potatoes, rice, cold sliced meat, milk, bread and butter; at five o'clock a plate piled high with sliced bread and butter and three glasses of water were carried to the nursery, and they were allowed to eat all they wanted of it; at half-past five the two youngest, aged five and seven, were put to bed; the oldest, nine years old, was allowed to be up till seven.

The family dinner was at six, and if the dessert was a light pudding, fruit and nuts, occasionally the boys were allowed to come down to dessert, but retired as soon as it was over.

"Do you never allow them a piece between meals?" I asked the mother one day.

"Oh, yes, there are some crusts of bread on a shelf by the nursery door that they can have whenever they are hungry."

"What, those hard things?" I asked in amazement for I thought they were some crusts that had lain there a long time and been forgotten.

"Yes," she replied, "if they are hungry they will sit down and gnaw away at a crust and enjoy it, and it is good for their teeth."

I saw many many times get out of those crusts and gnaw at it as if it were candy, and I thought how many mothers would give their children a great piece of pie, cake or bread and butter thick with jam, jelly or molasses. The crusts did not take away the appetite for the next meal, while such a large lunch as the other would answer for a meal.

Depend upon it, that children raised on some system of self-denial are much happier, much better in disposition and health than those allowed to gratify every appetite.

Take notice for yourself, some time when you are traveling, and you will soon notice the difference between the children who eat from the time they get on the cars to the time they get off, and those who eat nothing upon the journey only at regular meal times.

Children need good, plain food, plenty of fruit, but all kinds of rich pastry, gravy and knick-knacks of every kind they are much better without.

The food we eat is largely responsible for the diseases with which so many are troubled, and also for the disposition; so the planter it is, the freer we shall be from the many ills to which mortal flesh is heir.—Ladies' Home Companion.

SIAM'S DANCING GIRLS.

A Spectator Describes Some of Their Graceful Performances.

Poised on tip-toes, bending their limbs back as far as they will reach and picking up bits of straw with their eyelids, the dancing girls of Bangkok are always exercising in the royal gymnasium. The new volume in the Zigzag series, "Journeys in the Antipodes," gives a very graphic description of the wonderful physical training of these girls, whose ages vary from five to twenty years. The curious and subtle feat of picking up a bit of straw with the eyelids can be learned only by the youngest of them, who are made to practice it in order to render them flexible in every part of the body.

There are two long rows of benches, one a little higher than the other. On the lower is a row of little girls and on the upper bench are laid fine polished bits of straw. At the sound of the drum the little girls altogether bend the head and neck until they touch the bits of straw, which with wonderful dexterity they secure between the corners of the eyelids.

The cup dance is the most graceful and poetic of their dances. A row of young women with their faces in the center of the gymnasium. On hearing of music simultaneously, kneel down and fold their hands, and bow their heads until their foreheads almost touch the polished marble floor, keeping the cups steadily on their heads by some marvelous jerk of the neck. Then suddenly springing to their feet, they describe a succession of rapid and intricate evolutions, keeping time to the music with their arms, head and feet.

Next follows a miracle of art such as may be found only among people of the highest physical training. The music swells into a rapturous tumult. The dancers raise their delicate feet, curve their arms and fingers to and fro like withers of willow, agitate all the muscles of the body like the flutter of leaves in a soft evening breeze, but still keep the tier of cups on their heads. At other times a cup full of some liquid is placed on the floor in the center of the hall. A girl will spring to her feet and dance about it in round wild eddies, and suddenly laying herself down, keeping her arms folded tight on her breast, will take up the cup with her lips and drain the liquid without spilling a drop.

How the Only Existing Photograph of the Noted Philadelphian Was Taken.

John Wanamaker, the millionaire merchant prince of Philadelphia, has a deep-seated objection to sitting for a portrait. He has repeatedly declined the overtures of his family and friends who are anxious to secure a counterfeited presentment, and up to the present time it is not known that his features have been transferred to paper in any regular manner. A year ago, however, Mr. Wanamaker was a passenger on one of the North Lloyd steamers from Europe to New York. During the voyage he was frequently surrounded by a bevy of frolicsome girls, who made as much of him as they would of the most eligible beau at a fashionable watering-place. They were, in fact, more attentive than the proprietaries warranted. One of them in particular hung around the Philadelphia's steamer-chair almost every time he appeared on deck, and her marked attention caused a great many jokes to be cracked at her expense. Among the passengers was a passenger who had traveled extensively in Europe for an Eastern newspaper, and who had procured one of those small delicate cameras which is concealed in an apparently innocent button on the coat itself. Seeing this young lady around Mr. Wanamaker, the newspaper man determined to catch a photograph, and one bright afternoon he stepped in front of them just as a lurch of the ship threw the young lady into Mr. Wanamaker's lap. The focus was just right, and the telltale machine was snapped on the instant. It happened, however, that the Philadelphia man moved his head just as the chemicals were getting in their deadly work, so that his features are not well defined in the negative; but the position is perfect, and as the figure of the millionaire, he brought out in strong lines. It is the only known photograph of John Wanamaker extant.—Washington Letter.
